Select the right CMS and website design

Once upon a time (not so long ago) it was perfectly acceptable to whip up a quick website in Dreamweaver with a couple paragraphs of text, a few pretty pictures add a link (or 100) and ?Bobs your uncle' you're ready to go. But as all things do, the internet has grown and evolved and our needs and desires are much more complex than they ever were before (not to mention we actually want to manage our website and keep information up to date).
